Holistic Health Practitioner (HHP) Degree Program

Holism (from ὅλος holos, a Greek word meaning all, whole, entire, total) is the idea that all the properties of a given system (physical, biological, chemical, social, economic, mental, linguistic, etc.) cannot be determined or explained by its component parts alone. Instead, the system as a whole determines in an important way how the parts behave.

Holistic Health Practitioners take a Holiopathic approach to health, they are also known as Holiopaths who have studied Holiology. They are trained in various natural healing arts and modalities.

Certified Reflexologist (C.R.) Certificate Program

Reflexology is a holistic assessment and modality technique based on the principle that there are areas and points on the feet and hands that map via the nervous system to corresponding parts of the body. When pressure is applied to these areas and points, it stimulates the movement of energy along the nerve channels, and helps to restore homeostasis (balance) in the whole body. This is a unique curriculum like no other in reflexology.

This program educates the student in various reflective holistic techniques which allows the reflexologist to assess wellness from various anatomical signs, markings, colors, lines, and reflex points.

This program consists almost entirely of eBooks.

Enrollment Requirement: High School Diploma or GED

Duration: Self-paced. Generally 6 to 12 months to complete

Certified Iridologist (CI)

Iridology is the assessment of the body according to the irides (the colored area of the eye). The iris is one of the most complex structures of human anatomy. To an Iridologist, specific areas of the irides correspond to specific organs, tissues and body areas; and colors and textures suggest biochemical changes. The topography of the iris as it relates to the rest of the body has been mapped by practitioners over the last 400 years. More recently physicians have been able to study patients before and after operations and confirm signs within the iris and compare with the tissues and organs by the use of autopsies.

Accreditation

ACHM

Full Accreditation with the American Council for Holistic Medicine (ACHM) Visit them at: <http://www.theachm.org/>

Graduates will be eligible to apply for board certification. This organization offers board certification at every level of training. The ACHM offers clinical training for graduates. All our programs are accredited by the ACHM.

TAC

New Eden School has Accreditation with Transworld Accrediting Commission (TAC).

All our certificate and diploma programs are accredited by TAC.

Accreditation for an institution means that the institution has been reviewed by an independent agency (organization) that has certified that the school meets a certain standard of educational quality. The accrediting body monitors the accredited school on a yearly basis to make sure that certain standards are continually met. A graduate from an accredited school has access to certain privileges offered by that accrediting body, like board certification.

By law, accreditation is voluntary in the United States and not mandatory.

School Approvals

ANCB

New Eden has school approval with the American Naturopathic Certification Board.

Website: www.ancb.net
